ms of our age are
apital and labor,
the wage-system,
industrial accidents: the over-shadowing question of our day is the social question —the relations of men with one another in the world that now is; the dominating passion of our age is the social passion—the desire to serve those who are in need, to heal those who are bruised, to liberate those who are bound by chains of ignorance and want; the controlling ideal of our day is the social ideal, which embodies itself in practical endeavors after material comfort, mental efficiency, moral strength, and spiritual happiness for all men and women upon the earth.
